Browser Testing

For my final project, I decided to use the Google Chrome and Safari browsers to test my web design. Comparing the two, I noticed that Safari seemed to lack many features that Google Chrome offers. It seems that Google Chrome is more lenient and reliable towards your files in comparison to Safari. For example, Safari will not process Google fonts so it will ultimately fall back on your backup fonts. The padding on some of my objects seem somewhat off and does not align with my overall design.
